[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Scandal Continued---Beecher Still Working on that "Statement" of His.

New York, July 31.—The Express has the following: When Beecher was informed of the arrest of Tilton upon the charge of slandering him, he said [illegible]. In regard to his statement before the Committee he said that it was not completed; that he was engaged upon it. It was suggested to him that it would be a capital idea to [illegible] in a large church, charging an admission fee of [illegible] and devoting the proceeds to the poor. He laughed and thought it a good idea.

The paper also says that a reply has been received from Moulton to the written request of Beecher, while at [illegible] Moulton [illegible]. It remains [illegible] until [illegible] entirely known when he will return.

Mrs. Tilton is visiting her children at Mountclair, New Jersey.

Beecher's friends assert that when Moulton [illegible] it will entirely exonerate [illegible] the letter of [illegible] criminality [illegible] the letter [illegible] apology were brought about and written for [illegible] purpose from that ascribed by Tilton.

To a reporter [illegible] not talk. Beecher [illegible] that his friends rightly rely on him; that although [illegible] present, the sun of truth would soon burst forth and dissipate them. He was preparing a refutation of all charges against him and felt strong in his own heart. He might have been inconsiderate, even indiscreet, but had wronged no one.

New York, July 31.—The Tribune says Mr. Beecher's statement is completed and he is ready to go on, but his more cautious legal advisers urge him to wait until Tilton's whole case is in. They seem to look upon Moulton as Tilton's witness, who holds much of his testimony in reserve. A member of the Committee said yesterday that in law the whole of the letter [illegible] to be submitted to make a case, [illegible] it was in equity in the present case to require Beecher to [illegible] the contents of which he did not know.

Fight with Indians.

Galveston, July 30.—The News special says a fight between the Indians and rangers and United States cavalry occurred near Jacksborough on Friday last. The Rangers lost twelve men and several wounded. The cavalry lost several men and their commander and the whole force was repulsed by the Indians.

More Chicago Fires.

Chicago, July 31.—A fire to-day destroyed property on Market street worth $[illegible],000. There have been eleven alarms of fire here to-day, but [illegible] no great damage.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Important If True.

Washington, July 31.—The President to-day signed the commission of Thos. N. Stone as postmaster at Elko, Nevada.

Indian Supplies.

Bids for supplying beef, flour, coffee and sugar for the Indians of Arizona and New Mexico were opened at the Interior Department to-day. [illegible] parties bidding. Offers ranged from $[illegible] for beef, [illegible] 100 lbs. flour, $[illegible] 13 coffee, [illegible] sugar [illegible] 40. Secretary Cowan and Commissioner Smith have bids under consideration and awards will be made in a few days.

The Mississippi Troubles.

Despite the action of the Government in refusing to send military to Vicksburg, the executive powers of Mississippi still persist in the statement that the public peace is endangered. Gov. Ames, who has been away from his post, has returned and to-day telegraphed President Grant, reiterating in the main the representations set forth in the telegrams and mail advices previously forwarded by the negro Lieut.-Governor Davis. He makes no formal demand for troops, but the tenor of his dispatch is such as to intimate that he desires Federal troops to be called to Vicksburg on election day.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Spanish War News.

Bayonne, July 30.—The Carlists claim a great victory over the Republicans in an engagement near the frontier. Losses were heavy on both sides. The Carlists deny that there is any truth in the reports charging them with atrocities at Cuenca and other places.

"Armed Neutrality."

Rome, July 30.—To-day's Opinione asserts that negotiations are in progress which have in view the sending by maritime powers of squadrons to the Spanish coast after the example of Germany. It is understood that this step, if taken, is not to involve the question of intervention.

THE TERRITORIES.

It is stated semi-officially that two thousand Cheyennes and Comanches have left their reservations.

The entire volume of water in the Arkansas at Pueblo now runs through the new channel cut this spring, says the People.

The Temperance Alliance meeting on last Sunday evening at Seattle was addressed by the Rev. Addison Jones, of Salem, Oregon.

St. George, Utah, has been enjoying a temperature of 110 degrees in the shade. It is gradually increasing and the smell of sulphur is quite discernible.

Lieutenant Fred. Myers, Chief Quartermaster General and Brevet Brigadier General, United States army, died at Santa Fe a few days ago. He graduated at West Point in 18[illegible].

United States Attorney H. C. Alleman has begun a criminal suit for libel against W. N. Byers, editor in chief, and W. R. Thomas, managing editor of the Rocky Mountain News, of Denver.

The Congregational Church in Olympia is fast approaching completion. The inside is now being finished. It is very neat and tasty, and when done will reflect credit upon the congregation and the mechanics.

The Seattle Coal and Transportation Co. is now delivering coal upon their wharf for shipment to San Francisco, at the rate of thirty tons and upward daily. This, together with the preparations the company are making for the delivery of coal upon a large scale, gives quite a lively appearance to that part of the city in the vicinity of their works.

The Denver News of the 22d ult. says: "People have complained greatly lately of the infrequency of showers here, but there was a shower in the Clear creek valley the other day that would have made them complain on the other side of their mouths. The inhabitants of the vicinity of Boyd's bridge suddenly noticed a peculiarly black and threatening cloud overhanging the valley, but before they had time to take observations of the same (à la the Wheeler and Hayden expeditions) the [illegible] descended and the floods came in the form of 100,000,000 grasshoppers, at least that was all our reporter counted, which immediately set to work and began eating all the corn and other crops within a radius of half a mile. A particularly fine field of lettuce belonging to Mr. Perrin was almost entirely destroyed. At the same time some ten hundred thousand billions more were counted by our reporter flying southward, the wind coming from the north."

Washington Newspapers.—Here is the Cincinnati Enquirer's opinion of Washington newspapers:

The press of Washington is simply a toy. It is muzzled. Neither from the newspapers of the District nor in the social gossip of the Capital can so much be learned of whatever public wickedness may be going on in Washington as in any other considerable city of the country. The Washington newspaper is awed or subsidized or is looking for something, or, which is quite as often a check to truth-telling as either, does not like to throw and forfeit a place in a distinguished [illegible] church. Money, place or society silences the newspaper that reclines beneath the shadow of the everlasting green of [illegible] Jove. It is only the newspaper at home that is feared, and the newspaper at home is feared because it has a keen eye [illegible] enterprise, [illegible] nosing around in Washington, who asks no favors of any of the [illegible] that they tell him the news.

The Wallace Vendetta.—Little Rock, Ark., July 21.—Wm. Wallace, a brother, and Robert Wallace, a cousin of Sid. Wallace, who was hung at Clarksville on the 13th of March last, were shot from the bush near Clarksville, in Johnson county, last evening, resulting in the mortal wounding of William and the killing of Robert Wallace. No arrests. This is a continuation of the Wallace vendetta, which has existed in Johnson county for two years. A number of the kinsmen of the Wallaces armed themselves and went to Clarksville this morning hunting for the assassins.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

San Francisco, July 31.—It is reported on reliable authority that the Chinese Government will soon establish a Consulate in this city and that the six Chinese companies will defray the expenses of the establishment for the benefit of the home Government. It is thought an American will be appointed Consul with a Chinese Vice Consul to aid him. The Chinese Commissioner who went East recently to make arrangements with Eastern colleges for the reception of thirty Chinese students, is clothed with authority to make arrangements for establishing a consulate.

On the 29th inst. Bogus Charley, one of the chiefs of the Modoc tribe, visited St. Louis with A. M. Jones, Agent of the Quapaw Reservation, where a remnant of the Modoc tribe is stationed. Charley held levees at the St. [illegible] and was to return to the reservation with Jones. The Modocs on the reservation number [illegible]. It is said by the Agent their conduct is very exemplary and that they show a disposition to work and have abandoned the practice of gambling.

Greenback unchanged.

San Francisco, July 31.—The jury in case of Mrs. [illegible], tried for forging checks on Wells, Fargo & Co., failed to agree and were discharged to-night. This will probably end the prosecution of the woman.

A little child, name unknown, was run over by a truck to-night on Folsom street and received injuries which it is feared will be fatal. The truck driver escaped by running his horses.

San Francisco, July 31.—There was a very large attendance of Chinamen and Caucassians at the Chinese picnic at Woodward's Gardens to-day. Everything passed off quietly.

One of the performers on the horizontal bar at the circus this afternoon fell and was seriously injured.

Twenty one persons were committed to the Insane Asylum from this city during the present month.

Alfred Paraf, of the Oleomargarine butter firm, was arrested again to-night on two charges of forgery. Associated with him for the same offence is G. B. Vanbrunt, who is also in custody. While going to the City Prison along Montgomery street Paraf made use of some offensive language towards Mr. Seaman, formerly of the Oleomargarine Company, and received a beating with a cane in Seaman's hands.

James McAdoo, another hoodlum, was arrested to-night for participation in the murder of the circus employe James Ramsey. The police now have six of the fellows caged.

Interior California.

Sacramento, July 31.—Gov. Booth pardoned Andreas Garrido to-day, who was convicted of murder in the second degree at the July term, 186[illegible], in the District Court of Tuolumne county and sentenced to 20 years. This is one of many pardons recommended by the Legislature and not usually published.

The salaries for the State officers and attaches for the month of July amounted to $23,000.

Oakland, Cal., July 31.—At 3 o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the feed store of S. B. Malone on Twelfth street. It spread rapidly and the building and contents were soon entirely destroyed, together with two valuable horses. The flames communicated to the dwelling house and paint shop of Edward A. Bushell adjoining on Twelfth street and to the rear of a dwelling on Thirteenth street owned by James Canning, which was damaged to the extent of about $[illegible]00. Bushell's furniture and stock of goods were saved (though considerably damaged), but his house and store were a complete loss. Malone's loss is about $3,000, insured for $1,200 in the Home Mutual and Home. Bushell's loss is about $[illegible],000, and insured for a small amount in the State Investment. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Malone avers there was no fire about his place and thinks it was the work of incendiaries.

San Diego, July 31.—The Bee [illegible] this evening has the following special from Arizona:

Prescott, July 31.—The Miner publishes a letter from a correspondent at [illegible], who has been visiting the Colorado Reservation. Some damaging revelations appear in the letter. False musters are charged upon Agent Tonner, who is alleged to [illegible] a large body of Mojaves, who for years have been supporting themselves, to visit his Reservation when they were counted with other Indians so as to swell the aggregate at present to over 800. The ditch on the reserve is a dead failure, not one drop of water can reach it from Colorado, and the headgate has never been open. Nearly $100,000 have already been [illegible] in digging and $30,000 more asked for. Agent Tonner's statement that the ditch is now almost ready for use is denounced as a falsehood. A school master, head farmer and other employes are borne on the rolls and paid for doing nothing. No school exists. The farm so called consists of an alfalfa grass plat 30 feet square in front of the agent's residence, which is watered daily by Indian children under direction of the school master. Tonner is also charged with owning a ranch near the reservation to which the best cattle belonging to the Indians are sent and marked with his brand. All the best farming implements likewise find their way here. Indians are not half fed. Feeble old squaws are compelled to earn their living by carrying bundles of hay—often times weighing a hundred pounds—many miles to the reservation, where Tonner pays them nominally 50 cents per diem in two cups of flour. This hay is then charged to the government as having cost $40 [illegible] ton.

Shasta, July 30.—On Wednesday last [illegible] Whittle, a rancher living near Round Mountain, about thirty miles east of here, was shot and instantly killed by William West, also a rancher. Both parties were slightly intoxicated. Whittle made several threats and finally started for West with a knife, when he (West) drew a revolver and fired at him, killing him instantly. The Coroner's inquest rendered a verdict to the effect that he met his death at the hands of William West, who was acting in self defence. West came to Shasta and delivered himself to the Sheriff.

NEVADA.

Eureka, July 31.—The Eureka Relief Committee has decided not to receive any more contributions, as the amount contributed by the different towns and collected by the committee at home is deemed sufficient to relieve [illegible] immediate want.

The Ross Abduction—$20,000 Reward Offered.—New York, July 26.—The following personal appears in the New York Herald to-day: A New York gentleman of ample means, in the hope of saving the life of his invalid wife, who is growing insane over the [illegible] abduction, will pay an amount equal to the reward of $20,000 for the return to him of Charles B. Ross, in order that he may restore the child to its parents. While opposed to compromising a felony, he will act jointly in this case for the above reasons. On receipt of an answer from the right parties, proposing an [illegible] plan for the exchange of the child, [illegible] will [illegible]. Address AUTHOR P[illegible] [illegible] Philadelphia.

The Sewer Contract Forfeited.—The District Commissioners have decided that the most important sewer contracts shall be completed. Failure to complete them would, in the event of freshet, result in vast loss to the District by the destruction of untouched work. The contractors will be paid in the new bonds.

Hydrophobia.—Laporte, Ind., July 31.—Mrs. Catharine [illegible], the lady who was bitten three weeks ago by a rabid dog, died at 1 o'clock to-day with unmistakable symptoms of hydrophobia. Her sufferings were acute in the highest degree, and form one of the most interesting cases on record.

Terrible Flood in Pittsburg.

OVER 200 LIVES LOST.

A Hundred and Fifty Dwellings Swept Away--Appalling Scenes After the Waters Subsided--The Streets Strewn With Corpses--Several Towns Submerged--Railroad Tracks Washed Away and Travel Impeded--The Loss of Property Over $1,000,000.

Pittsburg, July 27.—A most destructive storm swept over this city last night. The rain poured through the streets from the neighboring hills, and the Union Depot was inundated with water from three to four feet deep. The [illegible] was filled with water and rendered [illegible]. Much property was destroyed on Liberty and Smithfield streets. From all side streets leading from the hill boulders were rolled from their position and hurled to the level below, while in many other places great holes were opened up in the streets. In the Fourteenth Ward the streets were terribly cut up.

IN ALLEGHANY CITY

The flood was terrible. A sewer on Madison avenue and Vista street bursted, inundating the whole of the upper part of the city. A number of houses were swept away on Spring Garden street, the water attaining a depth of ten feet, causing a large loss of life in that vicinity. It is reported that fifty-five bodies have so far been recovered. The destruction to property cannot be estimated. The damage to property on the south side is great. A large number of stables and buildings were swept away.

APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE.

A later dispatch says: The loss of life by the flood has been appalling. Thirty-eight bodies have been recovered in the Butcher's Run District, Allegheny county, and as many more are missing and supposed to have been lost. The havoc at Woods Run was fearful, and the place was a perfect sheet of water. Several houses were swept away. Nine bodies are recovered so far and five or six are still missing. On the south side, in the Run district, eight bodies have been recovered and thirty seven are still missing. Whole blocks of buildings are swept away in this district. It is thought over 150 persons perished in the flood.

THE WATER [illegible] IN THE STREETS.

For more than a mile on Spring Garden avenue, Allegheny City, the marks of destruction are plainly visible. Houses are washed away and buildings thrown together in heaps. Some 25 or 30 slaughter houses on this avenue were also washed away. Buildings that were not totally destroyed were greatly damaged. The water rising fifteen feet flooded the first floors of all the buildings and in many cases the second stories. Several houses were swept into the middle of the street and many others carried hundreds of yards and shattered to pieces. A house containing two or three families at Rear Center was destroyed and the inmates are all supposed to have been drowned.

THE HAVOC IN OTHER TOWNS.

In Temperanceville the elements made great havoc. The fierce torrents of rain that descended swelled every little tributary to Sawmill Run into a boiling stream and the accumulation of waters rushed with madness, irresistible fury down the valley, sweeping everything before it. The track of destruction of the flood is marked by wrecks of dwelling houses, bridges, immense heaps of stones, large piles of flood wood and torn and ragged side hills. Several lifeless bodies have already been found and from twenty five to thirty persons are missing. The iron bridge crossing Sawmill Run at Main street and two others were swept away. At McLaughlin's, about seven miles west on the Pan Handle road, eleven persons are reported drowned; also hundreds of cattle, horses and sheep.

The Latest.

THE LOSS OF LIFE GREATER THAN AT FIRST SUPPOSED.

Pittsburg, July 27.—Following is a recapitulation of the loss of life so far as reported: Butchers run, bodies found 44, missing 76; Woods run, bodies found 4, missing [illegible]; Castle Shannon, 10 found; Ohio river, 4 found; Soho, 1 found; Chartiers creek, 11 found, 8 missing; Bridgeville, 14 found, 8 missing. Total, 1[illegible] found, 96 missing. Total buildings destroyed, 147. Twelve miles of country were devastated at Butcher's run, where the flood was severe and terrible. Men are engaged in removing piles of boards, bricks and other debris under which dead bodies are still [illegible] the ruins of a score of buildings lie over them. The undertakers' establishments are full of corpses awaiting recognition. From an intelligent German woman the following details have been learned:

A HEARTRENDING SCENE.

She was aroused at half past 9 o'clock by hearing a queer rushing noise as of water pouring into the cellar. She called her husband, who on going down found water up to the pavement in front. As he lived on a high portion of Spring Garden avenue he could see a considerable distance around. The water below had risen to the upper stories of the buildings and when the cries for aid and heartrending screams of drowning inmates broke on his ears he at once comprehended the terrible situation. Presently some of the houses began to float off and the air was filled with distressing cries of mothers and children. At short intervals flashes of lightning would reveal ghastly stricken faces thrust from the windows of floating houses. The water rose higher and buildings began to crumble and fall to pieces. Struggling forms of men, women and children could be seen in the water battling for life. Afterward, intervals of lightning would again reveal the place, but the victims had disappeared beneath the floating debris. Never for a moment did the wild despairing cries cease.

No sooner did the cries of one cease with death than another would burst forth, and so on during the long hours of night. They could hear screams and witness dying struggles without the least power to help. At times they could see through the windows of floating houses where lights still burned, and saw mothers kneeling with children in their arms. Presently a house would topple and fall with a crash, but not too loud to drown the piercing shrieks of the poor wretches within. At the end of Center street and Spring Garden avenue stood a large brewery. A number of men were still at work, among whom was a man named Arnold. The flood came so suddenly that they did not have time to get to the upper story. Had they done so they would have been saved, as the water did not reach above the second story. The body of Arnold was found under a pile of brick, mortar and timbers, the outer walls of the building having been swept away. His face was fearfully mutilated and was almost unrecognizable. None of his companions were found. The streets about the place are so deep with mud that they are impassable. Alongside and lodged against the curbstones may be seen bed clothing, kitchen utensils, household furniture, trunks, groceries, provisions and articles of every description. Mrs. Gorman, whose husband was lost, was carried along among the debris in a dwelling for a quarter of a mile, when she managed to grasp a gas pipe and held on till ropes were thrown to her, when she was rescued. Sad havoc was created along the line of the Pittsburg and Castle Shannon Railroad.

RAVAGES OF THE FLOOD.

At South Pittsburg the damages will amount to but very little. Through Saw Mill Run and other points outside of the regular Saw Mill Run the amount cannot be estimated. Thus far ten bodies have been found there. It is supposed they were about to retire or had retired to bed, as they were all found nude. The passenger and coal trains are all stopped to-day, but by to-morrow all will be in running order. The company has sent out a heavy force of men to clear away the debris. The bridges all along the line in some places are considerably damaged on Carson street. On the line of the Pittsburg South Side Railroad, at the foot of Castle Shannon the inclined plane track and gravel has been washed away to a depth of sixty feet almost, and along the track of the Birmingham Railroad from 60 to 100 feet. A car last night while crossing this point was stopped by the flood and, unable to be used again, was left on the track, and this morning found filled with sand and gravel at Saw Mill Run. The bridge at the mouth near Woods' Mill is gone, and just above the trestle work of the Little Saw Mill Run Railroad the new iron bridge built by the city and which cost over $11,000 is gone. The gas tank of the West End Gas Company is washed away. The company expects to recover from the city. A part of the wall was taken away to build a bridge and never replaced. The company think they will have gas in the pipes again inside of a week. The Salt Works of W. C. & J. McTaylor, built on a small island almost level with the stream, are nowhere to be seen, the works having been dashed away with the building lately erected. Their loss is from $20,000 to $25,000. The bridge and a small bridge at the head of Walnut street are both washed away. Part of the [illegible] pavement on Walnut street is torn up by the bursting of a sewer. A part of the stable and eight horses belonging to J. Hamill were carried to the opposite side of the river. Five were recovered and three were so badly injured that they had to be shot. William Sel[illegible], groceries and dry goods, loss $5,000 on goods which were swept away. Brooks' Distillery [illegible] tanks, two stills, one condensing apparatus, two worms, and are otherwise damaged. Total loss not known. The body of Mrs. D. Sample, wife of Stephen Sample, was washed out on the pavement. Mr. Sample's wife and children were in their house, and when it gave way his wife told him to hold to the children, which he did, but never saw his wife again alive.

A LONG LIST OF BUILDINGS WASHED AWAY.

Art Vanucker's dwelling, F. O'Connor's house and Wm. Stevenson's, Stephen Dampas' house, Geo. Alsip's Miners' Hall, W. Archibald's two slaughter houses, Patton's Block, George's [illegible] two houses, Craig & Bell's blacksmith shop and fifty cars. Mr. Gray says the loss [illegible] and machinery alone will be $100,000. The Little Sawmill and railway lose all their trestle work, estimated at $20,000. On Federal street above North avenue the cellars were flooded as far as Sampson street. The [illegible] put up in the [illegible] district were considerably damaged. The bodies of four persons were found floating in the Ohio river this morning. The persons are supposed to have been [illegible] the [illegible] above.

THRILLING INCIDENTS OF THE GREAT DISASTER.

A German visited Farmon & Sampson's undertaking establishment and discovered the bodies of his wife and four children dead. A young man who lost his mother and three sisters at Butcher's run roamed about this morning like a madman. He said he held on to his mother on the street until something fell from a building and then he did not see her again. A man at Mansfield, when he saw the waters come hurrying down by his house, rushed out with his wife and child to carry them to a place of safety, leaving two children behind and cautioning them to stay within doors till he came back. The little ones becoming frightened started to follow their parents, but were caught up by the flood before they had fairly left the house and were swept off. The record shows the fall of rain to have been five and a half inches. Dead horses, cows and chickens are scattered here and there along the path of the flood, while the still angry rushing waters are filled with wagons of every description, twisted into all imaginable shapes, which had piled up in a heap against the houses built over the stream.

PETITIONING FOR AID.

The Mayors of Pittsburg and Allegheny City have issued proclamations for meetings to-morrow night to aid the sufferers at Woods Run, where the destruction has been awful. Houses were swept away and for hours the place was one sheet of water. One block of ten buildings was swept away at Soho, where the destruction of property was also large. One family there saved their lives by getting out of the house into a skiff. One house was completely demolished by huge stones being hurled against it. Brady and Justin streets were completely washed away. Stones weighing from 500 to 600 pounds were carried from Center avenue through the sewer to Fifth avenue. Seventh avenue is completely gutted, and will have to be repaved. The curbstones were also carried off. A wall at the head of the street was carried 300 feet.

RAILROAD TRAVEL IMPEDED.

A number of street and steam railways are stopped. The Connellsville Railroad is completely blocked above the city and no trains are running. The Birmingham, Ormsby and Pleasant Valley Railroad lines are all stopped. On the Connellsville road the earth was washed away from under the track for a long distance. The greatest damage confined itself within the block bounded by Spring Garden avenue North, Chestnut street South, Center and West streets. The land within those limits is considerably depressed and consequently the torrent rushing from the hillsides emptied itself into the hollow, forming a mighty gulf which in a brief space swallowed the inhabitants, the flood coming upon them between 9 and 10 o'clock, and so sudden was its appearance that they did not have time to ascend to the upper stories of their houses before they were afloat. Houses are lying on their sides and others are completely overturned with their roofs wedged in among the debris. The dead bodies have not all been taken out as yet, nor will they be for some days to come. It is reported that 150 have been recovered up to this time.

THE WORST FEARS MORE THAN CONFIRMED.

Latest intelligence from the scenes of the flood not only confirms previous dispatches, but makes the work of destruction much greater than was first reported. The deluge was not confined to two cities as first supposed, but stretched out to Shannonsburg, twenty five miles distant, laying in waste every part of the property that lay in its path. In addition to the destruction in Butchers, Wool and Sawmill Runs, it did terrible work on Flinners Run, Becks and Chartiers creek, sweeping away houses, barns, stables and property of every kind and description, and human beings by dozens were carried off without a moment's notice to watery graves. On Chartiers creek fourteen people were known to have been drowned. Between Bridgeville and Little London thirteen bodies have been recovered, and between the latter place and Cannonsburg seven bodies more. On line of Castle Shannon ten more bodies have been recovered. Every hour to-day has added fresh horrors. The districts most suffering by havoc were filled with crowds of people, many being attracted by curiosity.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES

Continues, and numbers are attracted to the scene who work with a will among the debris searching for the remains. The results in Butcher's Run grow more fearful hourly. Commencing with sixteen dead bodies recovered this morning, the number has now increased to seventy four. Sixty nine persons are still missing. Probably 150 persons perished at Butcher's Run alone. The total loss of life will reach two hundred. In one undertaking establishment in Allegheny City are thirty-three bodies. The loss of property will not fall short of $1,000,000. Fully one hundred and fifty buildings were destroyed. The sufferers are roaming the streets to-night. As many as possible are furnished with temporary relief. The city is in gloom. To-night there is a slight rainfall, but fortunately there are no threats of a repetition of last night's deluge.

The prevailing theory seems to be that

THE DISASTER WAS CAUSED BY SOME KIND OF WATER SPOUT.

A gentleman who witnessed the storm from a few miles down the river, where there was but little rain, says that by fitful flashes of lightning he could see a huge, inky black, funnel shaped cloud overhanging the city, the narrow end being the lowest, while the dark spots gave vent to bursts of lightning. It is almost impossible for any one not familiar with the geography of the locality to form an idea of the disaster or how it could have occurred. The main portion of the city of Pittsburg, as it rises gradually from the point formed by the junction of the two rivers, has many gulches which would render a flood of this description liable to do great damage. The part known as the Hill region is frequently liable to suffer from local inundations. The damage here, however, this time [illegible] light compared with other localities strictly suburban. The north bank of the Allegheny river, upon whose hillsides and in whose valleys the upper portion of the city is situated, has been

THE SCENE OF THE GREAT DISASTER.

The work of destruction commenced at a point about two miles north of the central portion of Allegheny City. The valley at its mouth is probably between 400 and 500 feet wide, and at the point where the work of destruction commenced it is not more than 150 feet wide. Between North avenue and this northerly point numerous ravines empty into Butchers Run Valley. Along this run houses were built directly over the river, a culvert being made as foundations for dwelling houses. The line of destruction followed the water course to the river and involved an immense number of houses not on the line of the culverts. The rain began suddenly and

IT SEEMED AS THOUGH THE HEAVENS OPENED

And the water came down as from huge pipes. The valley was soon filled with water and debris of houses, barns, etc. In the district west of Chestnut street the water rose twenty feet in places and the people could hardly save their lives, much less their goods. The dwelling of Henry Mattern was struck, and his wife and two children were drowned. Mrs. Winkler was carried off with her house and children. Mr. Shearing, as soon as he saw the flood coming, moved his family to the hills, where one child rolled over the embankment into the flood. The body was recovered this morning. The glue works were destroyed. Next, August Rockeoff's dwelling was washed clearly away with its occupants, and two children perished. At the intersection of Madison avenue and [illegible] street a house was struck by the flood and carried away, and all the inmates, six, were drowned. The torrent swept down the lowlands in width 200 feet and everything yielded to it like sand.

HOUSES BEING LITERALLY TURNED UPSIDE DOWN.

The house of Alderman Bolster was destroyed and one of his children was drowned. On the same street the family of Mr. Fuchs, consisting of Jacob Fuchs, wife and one child, and Joseph, brother of Mrs. Fuchs, and in another house adjoining Jacob Stone, his wife and two children were lost except one child. The lost bodies were found this morning. On Chestnut street and Spring Garden avenue the houses withstood the flood. About seventy houses were destroyed in all in this district, and it is thought many bodies remain in the debris.

A young man named Hamburgh was drowned while trying to rescue a family on Ohio street.

Spring Garden avenue lies on the south of Butchers Run. It is separated by a high hill. In this valley there were some terrible scenes. As to the loss of life it is impossible to give anything like a detailed account. Dwelling houses in the vicinity of those not destroyed are greatly injured. Two or three lives are reported lost in Spring Garden Run.

THE LOSS OF LIFE WAS FEARFUL.

In one house ten persons were drowned. Philip Hess and Henry Schaffer rushed out of a saloon into the street and were lost. Hess' body was discovered this morning, his hand grasping a fire plug. William Peats tied his wife and several small children with a clothes line in a room, to prevent their rushing off in alarm and being drowned. The house was carried far from its place, and they were saved, but he was lost. The number of persons lost is doubtless much larger than already reported. At Woods Run two houses, occupied by Pat Forley and Frisbie, were destroyed. John Gorman and three children were lost. One of the children was found near the railroad track to-day.

A RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPER'S OPINION OF THE SCANDAL.

[From the Pacific Methodist, July 24th.]

The most intense excitement pervades the public mind in reference to the awful controversy between Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and Theodore Tilton. We have refrained from any comment upon the matter, hoping (that as a scandal) it would soon pass away. But Mr. Beecher has seen fit to call a meeting of his church to investigate all charges against himself, and the public await the result with impatience. It was a fatal error, we think, when the Committee was composed of gentlemen who are personal friends of Mr. Beecher and perhaps members of Plymouth Church. Plymouth Church is not the only interested party in this matter. The Christians of America (of the world) are equally interested, and under the circumstances such a jury as the one formed has no right to sit in judgment on the case. Whatever the result of their investigation, it will be looked upon with suspicion. Mr. Beecher would have been wise if he had put his case in the hands of men of honor and integrity outside of his church. We hope, for the love of purity, for the sake of the cause of Christ, this chief among His ministers may prove himself innocent of the vile charges which are urged against him.

Heretofore nothing but the vaguest insinuations and innuendoes have been produced. But on Tuesday last Mr. Tilton came before the Committee with a written document which set forth a plain statement with great circumstantiality, even to dates and localities, backed by letters said to have been written by Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton. If this evidence is not overthrown Mr. Beecher is a villain of the deepest dye. Any good man may fall into sin, but no good man will harbor and foster sin. Our disgust for the whole affair is intense, but the Church of Christ has suffered a shock which must be met. Mr. Beecher has been the reverenced teacher of our holy religion for many years. His eloquent and noble utterances have been quoted far and wide. No matter if he did occasionally shock our orthodox ears with theories of natural religion, yet he was a recognized exponent of the teachings of our Lord Jesus Christ, and as such has won a position accorded to few men. If he is a recreant and traitor, his fall will be the cause of sad declension and provocative of insult and contumely to the cause of Christ.

Of course we can form no judgment at present. Mr. Tilton may be a lunatic—and his whole course in this case indicates such a conclusion; he may be a vile bad man whose desire for vengeance has uprooted every particle of self respect and decency and led him to malign his wife and Mr. Beecher. But we do demand that this case go before a different tribunal than the one now sitting.

The Big Snake of El Dorado.—The Virginia Chronicle of July 23d says: A wealthy banker of this city has offered $500 reward for the capture of an immense serpent recently seen by several credible witnesses near Ringgold, El Dorado county, California. It is described as being about thirty feet in length and marked with white spots. Those who believe in its existence suppose it to be a boa constrictor that escaped from a menagerie which passed through that part of the State in 1857.

Belligerent Colored Sisters.—Fort Wayne, Ind., July 20.—A disgraceful row between rival factions of the colored Methodist church occurred in this city yesterday, the participants being mostly women. The fight was attended with no more serious consequences than hair pulling, scratching and gouging with parasols. About a dozen of the most boisterous were arrested.

Duel of Butchers.—Memphis, July 20.—This morning two negro butchers named Frank Warner and Sam Smith fought with cleavers and butcher knives in their shops in Chelsea, inflicting mortal wounds on each other. Warner was disemboweled, and Smith was cut with a cleaver, the wound extending from the shoulders to the groin.

OREGON.

The first load of flax of this year's crop has reached Salem.

New wheat and oats have arrived at Corvallis in small quantities.

Harvest hands are in demand at from $1 50 to $2 25 per day, in coin.

A Marion county girl eighteen years old weighs [illegible] pounds in her stockings.

Somebody burglarized a grocery store at Albany the other night and got away with about a dozen bottles of bitters.

A number of improvements now going on in the city of Corvallis—warehouses, dwellings and barns going up rapidly.

On Saturday last a man named Duncan, a late arrival at Albany from the East, was adjudged insane, and sent to the Asylum.

A slight misunderstanding between a couple of Corvallis citizens, the other day, resulted in a little [illegible]. No broken bones.

The sawmill on the Upper Alsea is turning out a very superior quality of lumber and the road is daily crowded with teams hauling the same.

Governor Grover has appointed A. B. McIlwain, of Waldo, Josephine county, and Z. C. Norton, of Norton, Clackamas county, Notaries Public.

The first wheat of this season at Albany came from Judge Thornton's late farm, now owned by J. W. Shattuck, just across the river in Benton county.

Quarterly meeting of the U. B. Church was held at Belfountaine, Benton county, last Saturday and Sunday, when four persons united with that brotherhood.

On Sunday last a fire got out on Winkel's Butte, ten miles south of Corvallis, and burned over almost the entire mountain. About 3,000 rails were destroyed.

Mrs. Judge Thayer, of Benton county, has just had harvested ninety acres of fall wheat, on her farm six or seven miles from Albany, which averages about thirty bushels per acre.

The "red hills" west of Corvallis are said to be producing fine crops of grain this season. They have heretofore been thought of but little worth for anything but grazing purposes.

A young man named Osborn drove a horse attached to a buggy in which he was riding into deep water while crossing Long Tom, and was rescued with great difficulty from drowning.

It was rumored at Junction, but the report could be traced to no reliable source, that two men named Baker, who recently started east of the mountains with a drove of cattle from Lane county, had been murdered by a man who accompanied them.

While boring the well at the Court House in Corvallis, at a depth of twenty-six feet from the surface the auger struck a fir log, chips from which we now have at this office. The wood is firm and hard. Another proof that the soil of this valley is of Pliocene deposit.

In Coos county there are three large steam sawmills running night and day, with the largest capacity. At two of these mills there are ship-yards and an active business is going on in ship-building. At Simpson's yard there is the largest ship partially built that was ever attempted to be put up on this coast.

There is no part of Oregon more prosperous than Coos Bay. There are three coal banks open—two of them extensively—and two more preparing to ship coal. Dr. Henry's coal mine, on the Isthmus Slough, is being opened, the coal being of a superior quality. Utter & Co., at the Isthmus, are hard at work bringing their mine into profitable notice.

The Salem Statesman, of Friday, says: "An accident occurred at Cooke & Dennis' Sash and Door Factory yesterday afternoon, that seriously injured a workman named Risdon. He was engaged in running a steam saw, and in some way a heavy piece of timber was thrown from the machine, which struck him in the chest, knocking him senseless. He was carried home and was at last accounts lying in a dangerous condition, it being feared he has sustained internal injuries of a serious nature."

A young man, not yet twenty-one, has been for a year past trying to get away with a maiden of sweet sixteen, who resides in the vicinity of Scio. About 12 o'clock on last Monday night, by aid of a friend, the girl was stolen from her residence, together with a trunk containing her wearing apparel, placed in a buggy and safely conveyed to Marion station in time for the Albany express, and were soon whirling away to Gretna Green—Washington Territory—and doubtless have been ere this united in the bonds of wedlock.

The Albany Register grumbles a little as follows: "There are a large number of Indians prowling about the city, who are of no earthly use here and who should be placed on the reservations. We have called the attention of the proper authorities to the matter from week to week, but thus far no attention has been paid to the matter. The agents seem to feel it to be their duty to draw their pay and rations, and let the Indians look after themselves. Such agents are of no more value than the lazy siwashes and should be kicked out of office at once."

The Albany Register "extricates the dilapidated man from the shrubbery" when it comes to large fleeces. It tells this: "Among the band of sheep belonging to two wealthy citizens of Linn county was a buck whose fleece when taken from his back weighed seventy one and a half pounds. The shearing was done in June, and although the weather was warm and the buck had two pair of blankets wrapped about him, he chilled to death the first night after being deprived of his wool. This statement may seem somewhat extraordinary for even Oregon, but every word can be proven."

On Saturday last, while a team and hack containing a number of ladies and two gentlemen was standing at the residence of Mr. McCoy, in Linn county, a few miles east of Corvallis, one of the horses put his head down, caught the bridle bit upon the wagon tongue and broke it when they started. Before they had proceeded far the hack was capsized, throwing the occupants out. Miss Josephine Hamilton, the eldest daughter of Joseph Hamilton, of Linn, was caught by the overturning vehicle, her right elbow fractured, her face considerably bruised, a lower tooth extracted and a plate of upper teeth broken in three pieces. None of the others were injured in a manner worthy of mention.

Last Thursday evening, as the Albany Express train was leaving Oregon City, and while sweeping around one of the curves toward Canemah, the engineer saw a man walking on the track but a few feet in advance of the engine. The whistle was blown and the engine instantaneously reversed, but without avail. The man paid no attention to the coming train and he was struck by the engine and knocked down, the wheels running over his foot and dragging him some little distance along on the ties before the train could be stopped. He was picked up and taken to Salem in an insensible condition and placed in the Railroad hospital, where he will be cared for. He was recognized as a deaf mute living near Powell's Valley, in Multnomah county, and was of course utterly unconscious of the presence of danger at the time the accident happened.

Shocking.—The Springfield Republican says: The Newport girls have taken to bathing in public without fig leaves, and one of the papers mildly says it would seem that this thing had gone about far enough and needs looking after. We fear that it will get altogether too much looking after. Perhaps, though, it is a shrewd invention of the hotel keepers who wish to give Newport a reputation for picturesqueness.

Remarkable Digestive Powers.—Two butchers of Schoolcraft (Mich.) found in the stomach of a beef they butchered twenty-eight nails, one to three inches long, pebble stones, pieces of short iron two inches square, large pieces of window glass, two quite long pieces of brass belt buckles, a square piece of gold and a number of tacks. The creature was very fat and healthy.

Senators in Washington.—Senator Thurman is still in the city, and is supposed to be engaged in preparing an elaborate campaign speech to be delivered in Ohio late in the summer. Senator Sargent, of California, has [illegible] in the city almost constantly since the adjournment. Senator Lewis, of Virginia, has [illegible] here all the time since the adjournment. He will go next week to his blooded stock farm in Western Virginia. His health is much improved. Senator Kelly, of Oregon, has not yet returned to his constituents. Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, has been here for a few days on a flying trip, but yesterday returned to Nebraska. He does not anticipate much trouble with the Indians in his State this summer. The campaign, he thinks, will be animated in Nebraska, as the legislature that is chosen will have to elect a successor to [illegible] Tipton.

SATURDAY MORNING AUGUST 1 1874

THE REPUBLICAN MANIFESTO

The address of the Union Republican Congressional Committee of which mention has been made heretofore has been on our desk for some days [illegible] at length precluded [illegible] till yesterday. It is not a production calculated to [illegible] critical reader with the [illegible] named body with which [illegible] It is voluminous [illegible] anything of the kind we ever [illegible] and frothy [illegible] anything we had [illegible] ever [illegible] such [illegible] full of [illegible] one would [illegible] the [illegible] contain [illegible] from [illegible] statement of the fact that such [illegible] are approaching and a very [illegible] Republican votes at the [illegible]

As a [illegible] document this address is unique [illegible] original. It presents [illegible] but not very much condensed from the substance of Greeley's history of the great conflict with slavery, Benton's narrative of the agitation of the question of internal improvement, all the messages of all the Presidents since the inauguration of Jackson with the exception of Harrison, Tyler and Taylor, and all the Fourth of July speeches since the close of the war, besides several other matters and things of lesser importance. And in the tone and spirit which pervade this address it is quite as little in accord [illegible] with what one would naturally expect, all things considered, as its subject matter. The politicians who compose this committee [illegible] of such standing as to establish a presumption in their favor in the matter of personal dignity but their position as the National Committee of a great political party it would be supposed ought to be somewhat of a guaranty against such vulgar stump oratory as this reference to the administration of public affairs in the days of Democratic rule:

We [illegible] to Great Britain a portion of our territory in the northeast, another and a larger portion in the northwest. We described the line agreed upon in the northwest so loosely that Great Britain immediately laid claim to large islands [illegible] The resulting claim was neither resisted nor [illegible] It was compromised by permitting the claimant to hold armed possession of one end of San Juan, the most valuable of those islands [illegible]

Or this:

It has been loudly vaunted that those were cheap administrations. Compared with the expenditures of these times they were cheap, very cheap. Compared with their worth to the country they were probably the most profligate the world ever saw.

Or this:

It [the Democratic party] dared not levy a tax except on the importation of a foreign commodity, and it always dreaded to tax the importation of a foreign commodity lest it might unwittingly promote some domestic industry. No well educated Democrat could tolerate such a result.

These are specimens of the style of this document, taken almost at random. How far they fall below the dignity that should characterize such a paper. Such treatment of the subject, if bestowed in a stump speech by any one of the Flannagans and Hipples who compose the Committee would be excused, not approved, by an intelligent audience; and a few articles—very few—in the same vein would be tolerated in a daily paper during a campaign. But that is an entirely different thing from making up an address from the National Committee to the people of the United States out of such vulgar vaporing.

Nor does the committee add anything to the estimation in which this manifesto must be held by assuming the most arbitrary power over the facts of history. Under Democratic rule, says the committee, "We bullied Austria out of a Hungarian refugee." This is an allusion to the case of Martin Koszta. But the Committee, a few sentences further on boasts that the Republican administration have induced the nations of Europe to recognize the right of expatriation. If it was right for our Government to insist upon establishing this as a principle of international law, how was it wrong for the Democrats to make Austria act upon it? There is enough that may be cited to the disadvantage of the Democracy without any such shallow pettifogging as that.

With astonishing forgetfulness of the facts this Committee takes credit to the Republican party for the reducing the rates of letter postage below ten cents, when the truth is the reduction was made before the election of the first Republican Congress. It is equally oblivious of the part taken by Mr Fillmore and Mr Webster in the fugitive slave infamy and of half a dozen other events in the history of the country in which the progenitors of the Republican party were more conspicuous than was good for their reputations, looking from the advanced situation of the present day.

But one seeks in vain in this proclamation for any solution of the practical and pressing questions now before the people. It offers no solution of the currency or railway problem, but says of each, substantially that the Committee does not know what to do about it. On the currency question there is not even a suggestion except the bare statement that in the opinion of the Committee the Republicans can handle it; while on the transportation question it takes a single step and that in the wrong direction, declaring in favor of the power of States to regulate freight rates but against the policy of their doing so. If we could suppose it possible that this Committee has made the best showing that could be made for the Republican party, either historically or with regard to its future purposes and policy, we should have a much lower opinion of the [illegible] than we have ever entertained.

[illegible] MARRIAGES

The [illegible] one of the Civil Courts of France has decided that marriages celebrated at the residence of a foreign minister not being according to the laws of France are null and void. This decision will affect a very large number of marriages, as it has long been the custom of persons traveling or sojourning abroad to have their marriage solemnized at the house of the Minister or Ambassador of their own country. A great many Americans have been married at the residences of our Ministers to the several European courts. Indeed many Americans who have taken French wives have gone to their Minister's house to have their marriage solemnized. The theory upon which this custom has been based [illegible] the [illegible] own country [illegible] the laws of his own country prevail there [illegible] is to the effect that this fiction is applied only for the purposes of his Ambassador [illegible] the place is to be deemed the territory of the country in which it is located [illegible] principle that [illegible] is the correct view, but still the law has always been extremely tender of questions affecting the validity of the marriage relation, leaning as much as possible toward such construction as will sustain marriages that have not been performed according to the strict letter of the law. This [illegible] if adhered to will upset many marriages now supposed to be valid and may open questions involving large estates.

THIRD TERM CLUBS

Clubs are forming in some of the Southern States for the avowed purpose of endeavoring to secure the election of Grant to a third term of the Presidency. It seems strange that such a movement should be set on foot in that section of the Union, and it is especially strange that the most prominent among those who are pushing the movement should be found the irreconcilables who so long refused to accept the situation after the war was over. [illegible] in the same letters and almost in the same sentences in the proceedings of these clubs are found bitter denunciations of the Civil Rights bill and all kindred measures and expressions of ardent desire to see Gen Grant re-elected. It has been remarked that most of the advocates of the third term are in the Democratic party, while the Republicans are either silent upon the subject or speak out plainly in opposition to the third term. Indeed so far has this gone that some have intimated that Grant wishes to be the candidate of the opposition, and others that the opposition are endeavoring to force his nomination because they know he would not be so hard to beat as a new man. Whatever be the object, it is true that the strongest third term talk comes from Democratic sources.

THE MAGAZINES

Scribner's Monthly for August presents a splendid table of contents. Edward King continues his elegant articles on "The Great South," which is the opening article. The illustrations in this number are like steel engravings. Scribner's is the [illegible] of pictorial magazines.

The Galaxy is filled with elegant matter as usual. Richard Grant White is an indispensable feature of this splendid magazine and he continues his curious linguistic inquiries in the August number.

The telegraph gives information that Mr Beecher is still industriously at work upon that statement of his. If he has a good defense he would better put it in without this protracted and laborious effort. The plain truth could be told at once. If he is not simply waiting to have all the rest of the statements in so as to accommodate his to them he is certainly in a fair way to make the world think he is.

Later—The document is completed says the last dispatch, but is not to be filed till Tilton rests his case. This is not the way they do in court. It is to be hoped the evidence produced before the statement is filed will not make any change in its contents necessary.

CITY.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—We have often observed a [illegible] among farmers and those who deal in cattle which ought to be discontinued on the ground of common humanity. It is the practice of tying young calves with ropes in a secure manner, throwing them in a wagon and hauling them a number of miles to the city where they are sold to the butchers for veal. To hold the little creatures still and prevent them from kicking about in the wagon and making trouble they are frequently bound very tight with thongs—sometimes three or four animals fasten[ed] together. In this helpless condition the [illegible] animals are rudely thrown into a wagon which is driven rapidly over a rough road to the slaughter house. How much physical pain the animals are called upon to suffer can not be known, for the reason that speech is a thing of which they are deprived, and those who ignorantly or intentionally inflict the torture have no means of ascertaining. Every few days we observe this cruelty exercised by persons whom we feel constrained to believe are not hard hearted or would wantonly inflict pain or torture on a dumb brute. Such cruelty is generally the [illegible] when he is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] It is only a brute [illegible] would [illegible] voluntarily to [illegible] Cruelty to an animal is even more cowardly and unjustifiable than if exercised toward a fellow creature, a fact which the [illegible] are apt to overlook. In the instance to which we have called attention there appears to exist no necessity for such cruelty. Some contrivance could be easily and simply arranged to convey calves to market without binding their legs with ropes and thongs. As Portland boasts of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Dumb Animals we would call their special attention to this matter. All humane persons must admit that it is an unjustifiable and wholly unnecessary cruelty, and therefore should be prohibited.

LARGE WHARF.—A very large wharf is now in process of construction below the westside depot by Capt Flanders. This wharf will be one of the largest and most commodious improvements of the kind that grace our city front. A large warehouse reaching from the railroad connecting the depot and lower saw mill to deep water, 40x70 feet, is being constructed. In addition an open wharf 60x80 feet will be built for allowing ingress and egress to teams. When completed the wharf will possess a frontage of 160 feet. The warehouse is being constructed with special reference to convenience and the saving of labor, time and expense. Freight can be discharged directly from the cars and deposited on the wharf with one handling and carted to the vessel lying alongside very easily. During the June freshet all the piles were driven and a number of carpenters are engaged in capping them and laying the cross timbers. The work is being crowded through with all haste and the wharf and warehouse is expected to be ready for use by the time the great rush of wheat commences in the latter part of September.

CONFERENCE CAMPMEETING FROM AUGUST 4TH TO 10TH.—Arrangements have been completed by the Committee for all that is necessary for the comfort and entertainment of those who may attend the Conference Campmeeting to commence at Canby on Tuesday next. Tents have been secured for lodging, which may be had from the committee at reasonable rates, persons bringing their own bedding. An excellent and neat family will take charge of the large boarding tent and furnish meals at $1 a day or fifty cents a meal. Half fare tickets will be issued along the entire line of the O & C R R, to persons attending. On Sabbath the great Tabernacle 150x100 feet will be dedicated with appropriate services. A large number of ministers will be present. This promises to be the most interesting campmeeting ever held in Oregon under the auspices of the M E Church.

CARRIED BY STAGE.—Commencing with to-day the daily mails between this city and St Joe will be carried by stage instead of by car, the railroad company declining to transport them longer than the last of July at the present rates. The contract for carrying the mail between St Joe and Corvallis has already been let to responsible parties and will go into effect to-day. Under existing circumstances the mails between Portland and St Joe will reach their destination about as quickly as by rail. The stage will leave here early in the morning and distribute the mails along the route, arrive at St Joe about the same time that the train does which leaves here at 3 o'clock P M.

MORE ANTHRACITE.—A farmer in Chehalem Valley, Washington county, while digging a well, cut a vein of coal ten inches thick, which Prof Collier of Forest Grove pronounces of this much desired species of coal, having its specific gravity and exhibiting under the blowpipe the characteristics of flame and heat of this coal. We have seen a specimen of the discovery which presents a splendid appearance. We await the finding of a vein of this long sought species of coal on this slope sufficient to supply commerce. Who will be the lucky finder?

ASSUMED THE DUTIES.—Mr D L Malarkey, the new United States Marshal for Oregon, having filed his bonds and complied with the requirements of the law, took possession on Thursday of all the papers, effects, etc, which were turned over to him by the late Marshal, Thos G Young, and has assumed the duties incumbent on the position. We are not advised as to who Mr Malarkey has appointed or intends to appoint, as his deputies.

SETTLED.—It was thought that the adjustment of damages claimed in the case of the collision of the vessels Hera and Oregonian at sea would become a subject of litigation, and at one time it was to be brought before the Courts in San Francisco. But we learn the matter at issue has been amicably settled between the parties—Mr Jesse Holladay and the Simpson Bros—by each paying one half the cost of repairing both vessels.

FOR MOUNT HOOD.—This morning a party of gentlemen, consisting of Prof J M Williamson, S [illegible] Intermela, Ed Mendenhall, A E Borthwick and several others, will start for Mount Hood. The party take with them several pack animals and a good stock of provisions. They expect to be absent about ten days. The party are well supplied with guns, ammunition, fishing tackle and propose to have a good time.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Messrs Bradley, Marsh & Co have leased the entire building, part of which they now occupy, and which they have fitted up in such a manner that the oldest inhabitant would scarcely recognize it. They have advertised largely and a constant stream of people are thereby attracted, and the result is a large and increasing business. The firm has just added a British bankrupt stock, of which they give the prices in their new and attractive advertisement, besides a large stock of groceries, clothing, hats and caps, etc, for the reception of which they are having the upper rooms in the building prepared. The continuous street improvements have rendered pedestrianism rather difficult, but this will be overcome to-day and the public will in future be enabled to make their way into Bradley, Marsh & Co's establishment without hindrance. A full corps of clerks will be in readiness to wait upon customers. The country folks are solicited to call.

A BIG DOCTOR'S FEE.

[From New York Cor Boston Evening Gazette.]

The son and heir of the late Edwin Stevens, Mr John C Stevens, although he is the possessor of almost unlimited wealth, being worth some $75,000,000, has until very lately been a most unhappy man. He has been afflicted since his birth with a peculiar wen, which has increased year by year until it covered a large portion of his face and neck. It was a most unpleasant object, being covered with long hair and strangely resembled an animal. No man could see it without a shudder, and ladies have fainted at the sight of it. Of course Mr Stevens felt the affliction most keenly and it had naturally enough, a very depressing effect on his spirits. What was his immense wealth to him? Any workman in his employ was more to be envied than he. He became morose and almost melancholy, society that he was exceedingly fond of he studiously avoided, and although a young man he became almost a recluse. The physicians and surgeons of Europe were consulted, but they all said that to remove the wen could but result in his death. Although his life was so miserable, still there was hope, and he bore bravely up against repeated disappointments. Deliverance came at last, and a few days ago an operation was performed which has made him a new man. Dr Willard Parker, of this city, had faith to believe that the wen could be removed. He told Mr Stevens so. The young man, grasping at the straw, promised him $150,000 if he would perform the operation successfully. He did so, and has earned the everlasting gratitude as well as the money of the young millionaire, who is now pronounced out of danger. The operation was performed with electric knives. It is said when the horrid tumor was removed the skin beneath was sound and smooth as that of any other part of the body. Notwithstanding the cloud that has hung over his whole life, the young man has had his love affair like the rest of us. In early youth he was betrothed to a little girl, the daughter of one of his father's dearest friends, who always loved him and sorrowed with his affliction. While the hateful thing was upon him it is said Mr Stevens gave up all idea of being married, but now that it has been removed we shall expect soon to hear of great wedding festivities at Hoboken.

CÆSARISM.—A bucolic editor in the interior of Illinois has been recalling the time when Grant lived in Galena, supporting his family on $1,200 a year. He vouches for the story that once upon a time Nellie went to dine with a little friend, and when her host's mamma apologized for using napkins made from a worn out table cloth, the artless girl exclaimed: "We don't have any at all at our house." The story is an important contribution to the pages of history. When we think that the Grant family now has napkins every day, we get some insight into the boundless ambition of that family, shead and begin to believe in the possibility of Cæsarism. The man who can rise from nothing to napkins is capable of laying his mailed hand on the neck of the bird of freedom and placing his iron heel on the liberties of a nation. If he has more than a half dozen napkins on hand just now we would advise him to send one to the bucolic editor to wipe his nose withal. His address is The Horse [illegible].—Chicago Times.

A WINDFALL TO MRS GEN BRISTOW.—The journey of Secretary Bristow to Kentucky was not one of pleasure. It was caused by the death of an uncle of Mrs Bristow, and the necessity of preparing to administer upon a large estate. This uncle of Mrs Bristow, who was very wealthy, left but two heirs, Mrs Gen Bristow, and her married sister, to whom the whole of the entire estate was willed. Gen Bristow was made by the will sole executor of the estate, and his business in Kentucky was to make arrangements to enter upon his duties as executor. Mrs Bristow under this will thus comes into the possession of about a quarter of a million of dollars. Mrs Bristow returned from Kentucky with the Secretary and will spend the heated term at Deer Park, the new and favorite watering place on the summit of the Alleghanies on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.—Washington Special to the New York Tribune.

NAVAL ECONOMY.—Washington, July 21.—Extensive preparations are being made by the navy department to fit out the steamer Dispatch, which takes the junketing senate naval committee on a trip to all the navy yards on the Atlantic seaboard. The committee is to start from this city on the 4th of August. Every delicacy which will make the [illegible] said expedition feel lightly the burdens imposed upon them by an exacting country will be supplied, and in addition the usual funds which counteract seasickness will be furnished. The Dispatch was sent by Secretary Robeson some time ago, to Norfolk to be overhauled. This was accomplished and she was about to return but broke two blades of her propeller and was compelled to push back to Norfolk for additional repairs. The accident will not interfere with her trip with the committee.

MICHIGAN OFFICEHOLDERS IN DANGER.—Senator Chandler and Representative Hubbell of Michigan, arrived here yesterday [illegible] day both were buzzing the departments and gyrating between the interior and the treasury offices. It is intimated that certain office holders have revolted and refused to lend a helping hand to make Chandler his own successor. When the [illegible] senator [illegible] friend who weakens on him he applies the most stringent remedy—that of decapitation. It is very probable that too many heads of some of the Michigan officeholders headed [illegible] to the Chandler interest will be in the official basket.—Washington Dispatch.

LYNCHED.—Shreveport, La, July 2[illegible].—Geo Simpson, a planter residing [illegible] from this city, was murdered by a negro Saturday evening. Mr Simpson, aged about 70, was [illegible] and asleep when the negro slipped into the house, and seizing Simpson's gun, shot him dead. The negro was pursued and captured, and when within [illegible] miles of the city, was taken from his captors and killed.

The Starboard Horse-tack Block, [illegible] know [illegible] from the old wreck of French sloop [illegible] be seen in the Museum.

THE GAZETTE STRIKE.

On Saturday the proprietors of the Gazette struck against the Typographical Union and filled the places of the compositors with few exceptions, with new men who are not of the Union. We regret to part with these printers, most of whom have been with us a long time, but we have resolved to submit no longer to the dictation of an outside association which ruled them and was determined to control our business.

Monday morning when the Gazette compositors went home it was deemed necessary that they should be escorted by policemen. During the day threats were made by some of the Union men against the new compositors. And in one instance at least a letter was sent to a sister of one of them saying that if her brother did not leave the Gazette composing room "there would be blood shed."

Monday a most dastardly attempt was made to poison the printers. Lunch is usually served in the compositors' room at midnight. Monday night it was ready at half past twelve. All who drank the coffee were within a few minutes seized with violent sickness at the stomach accompanied by severe purging. Several were so sick that they had to go to their boarding places. Fortunately, some of the coffee has been preserved and a chemical analysis will be made of it to-day.

It is not necessary to waste words in characterizing this attempt. It is of a piece with the infernal villainy that has led to efforts to wreck trains and blow up boilers. It only makes it plain that in their desperate attempts to rule there are members of the Typographical Union who will hesitate at no scoundrelism, treachery or devilishness.

We have only to add that if anybody has felt any sympathy for the Union members of the Union are taking the very course proprietors would have them take to abate it.—Cincinnati Gazette, July 22d.

When your Liver is out of Order use Dr Jayne's Sanative Pills, and you will bring back the organ to a healthy condition and get rid of many distressing symptoms.

Puncheons of quack medicines are drunk every year. Some people have a hankering after them. If a tithe of what is claimed for them could be believed, the Boards of Health might go into bankruptcy; there would be nothing for them to do—so it goes—people will take liquid drastic cathartics until they grow too weak for any more, or until they use PLANTATION BITTERS, when they become able to go about again and so be restored to health.

Sciatica is really Hip Gout, and one of the most excruciating diseases which afflict mankind. It usually shows itself first on the ball of the foot, involving the thigh and often the entire leg from the hip joint. If neglected or wrongly treated the disease becomes chronic and entails a life of misery upon the sufferer. By rubbing the parts affected from the seat of the disease, which is the hip, following the nerve which can be easily traced by the pressure with MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT instant relief will be experienced and if persevered in a permanent cure will be effected.

If there be one thing which disfigures the face more than another it is sallowness. This results from the clogging of the pores of the skin, which always precedes cutaneous disease. The only remedy is the regular use of HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM, which opens the pores and restores the bloom of youth by removing the disturbing cause. The jaded worn look of many young ladies scarcely out of their teens, results from the use of pastes and unguents which excite at first, but are always succeeded by premature decay of beauty.

Strange Head-dresses!—A writer of the reign of the Maiden Queen described the prevailing styles of Head dressing. "The hair must be curled, frizzled, crisped, laid out in ropes, wreaths and borders from one ear to the other, and lest it should fall down, under-propped with forks and wires, and ornamented with great wreaths of gold and silver, with bugles, ouches, rings, glass and other such gewgaws." Now a lady needs only a bottle of LYON'S KATHAIRON to keep the hair healthy, lustrous and luxuriant, and a moderate amount of taste, and she can excel the historic beauties of the olden times.

THE TWO LOVERS

BY GEORGE ELIOT

Two lovers by a moss grown spring
They leaned soft cheeks together there
Mingled the dark and sunny hair
And heard the wooing thrushes sing
O budding time
O love's blest prime

Two wedded from the portal step
The bells made happy carolings
The air was soft as fanning wings
White petals on the pathway slept
O pure eyed bride
O tender pride

Two faces o'er a cradle bent
Two hands above the head were locked
These pressed each other while they rocked
Those watched a life that love had sent
O solemn hour!
O hidden power

Two parents by the evening fire
The red light fell about their knees
On heads that rose by slow degrees
Like buds upon the lily spire
O patient life
O tender strife

The two still sat together there
The red light shone about their knees
But all the heads by slow degrees
Had gone and left that lonely pair
O voyage fast
O vanished past

The red light shone upon the floor
And made the space between them wide
They drew their chairs up side by side
Their pale cheeks joined and said "Once more!"
O memories
O past that is

ORIENTAL MATRIMONY

MARRIAGE CUSTOMS WHICH PREVAIL IN THE EAST INDIES—A QUADRUPLE MARRIAGE—AN INDIAN PRINCE MARRIES BY WHOLESALE—THE FOUR BRIDES AND THEIR TROUSSEAUX—THE ANTE NUPTIAL AND POST NUPTIAL FESTIVITIES

To the inhabitants of civilized America and Europe where monogamy is universally recognized as one of the most absolute and binding tenets of the religious and secular law there is something abnormally strange in the marriage customs which prevail in Oriental countries. To be sure we have become more or less familiarized with this phase of social life, as the means of communication have been opened between us and that offensive community which for so long a time comparatively hidden and almost forgotten in the wilds of Utah and which has always been regarded with disgust as a blot upon our civilization composed of a people low in the scale of intellect and morals. But we give below an account of the marriage of a high potentate in India, where polygamy is the rule and not the exception, and doubtless the details of the peculiar festivities and ceremonies will be interesting to all, while the description of the magnificent trousseaux of the brides cannot fail to attract the attention of our lady readers. The article is from correspondence of the Times of India. The place from which the letter is dated is a seaport town of British India in the presidency of Bombay, and one of the chief ports on the Gulf of Bombay

BHOWNUGGUR, April 26

His Highness Takhtutsingh Juswuntsingh Thakore of Bhownugger, who has just consummated the quadruple marriage which I am about to describe, was betrothed to each of his four present wives during the life of his father, Thakore Juswuntsingh

THE FOUR MRS. JUSWUNTSINGH

The following is the list of the Thakore's brides their respective ages, and the names of the places to which they previously belonged

The first bride is the daughter of the present Chief of Wunwan and is about fourteen years old. The second is the sister of an heir apparent of Gondul and is about fifteen. The third is the sister of the father of the reigning Chief, of Vaukaneer she is more than twenty years old. And the fourth is a daughter of a girassia or wealthy land owner of Dank she comes from Talaja, and is said to be twelve years old the probability being that she is much younger

THE ANTE NUPTIAL FESTIVITIES

The festivities immediately connected with the marriage may be said to have commenced with the present month when the brides set out from their homes for Bhownuggur. Long processions were formed and went winding through the country, setting all Eastern Kattyawar ablaze with excitement. I will not attempt to describe the surging river of heads the glare of torches by night, the blare of trumpets by day, the elephants, horses and carriages of every kind the tom toms, the fireworks, the flowers and the rose water and the large heavily decorated queerly shaped closely curtained car in the centre, containing the bride guarded around by old family retainers the whole lumbering vehicle being drawn by huge bullocks having their horns encased in gold

THE DOWRIES OF BRIDES

The dowries of the brides—some three hundred and fifty thousand rupees (about $2 450 000) in value altogether—were now being examined and suitably stored and the carriages horses, elephants, &c , which they also brought to enrich their royal husband were sent to the places appointed for their reception

THE UPROAR AT BHOWNUGGUR

Shortly before the 19th—the day fixed for the first wedding—these processions found their end in the city of Bhownuggur all of this time of course there were no end of tamashas (sprees) in Bhownuggur itself. The Thakore was in his glory. Day and night rang to the sound of two bands, to the rattle of tom toms innumerable, and to the piping tinkling screeching and braying of the instruments of hundreds of native minstrels each ambitious of making the greatest noise. The prolonged roar of country people pouring in on all sides to witness the festivities, the neighing of horses lowing of cattle, and occasionally trumpeting of durbar elephants, now and then the rattle of guns fired in honor of the royal bridegroom and at night the skyward rush and final explosion of large sized rockets—all added together swelled that perpetual universal uproar which to a native's mind is inseparable from true enjoyment

The wedding day at length arrived. The excitement in Bhownuggur reached its climax. The stream of native visitors from all parts of the neighboring country increased in volume. The embassadors and representatives of nearly every chief princeling land owner and man of wealth in Kattyawar came hurrying into Bhownuggur. All business and buying and selling save that in eatables and drinkables, stood at a stand-still. Even the police had nothing to do. All the world and his wife of Bhownuggur either sunned themselves in the street and open places chatting gayly and laughing in perfect idleness or crowded to the feasts and distributions of betel &c , to which all were invited by the Thakore. The teeth of nearly every woman were red with betel—in joy and honor of the occasion and most of even the poorest coolies were redolent of sandal or attar

THE FOUR FOLD ALLIANCE

On Sunday the Thakore sat out on horseback from his place and ambled off to the temporary residence of his first bride the chief of Wudwan's daughter. Taking her from thence he proceeded to the house of a relative near the fort and the marriage ceremonies were privately performed—no Europeans being present. After this marriage was over the Thakore had ungallantly to rush off and be in a similar manner wedded to the sister of the heir apparent of Gondul. It was not however till Monday evening that the Thakore completed his four fold alliance by espousing by torchlight the ladies from Vaukaneer and Talaja. The great thing about all these marriages were the processions

THE MARRIAGE CEREMONIES AS DESCRIBED BY A NATIVE

The Thakore had each time to go on horseback some distance—more than a mile—out of the city gate to fetch the bride. He was then followed by a gigantic procession the infantry and cavalry following and almost the whole town turning out some to join the procession, others to look on. He met the bridal procession each in turn and dismounting sought admittance into the bride's ruth or car which was covered with purdahs and guarded by men and women. After he had given a promise—as is customary—to the guards to give them some presents for their loyalty in behalf of his Highness entered the car. He seated himself on the right of the bride and the procession then returned into the town as before and the marriage ceremony according to Rajpoot rites and customs, was gone through not in the palace but in the house of a very near relative of the Thakore

I may add that the expenditure on marriage has been about five lacs—$3 500 000. Each bride receives about 20 000 rupees worth of jewels. Then the expenditure on horses, carriages cloths, and such other articles of substance would take up about a lac of rupees. The rest of the money goes on entertaining the bridal processions guests and others who have thronged to Bhownuggur from all parts of Kattyawar

The festivities continued for days after the wedding was over. Processions wound through the streets there were fireworks and Parsee entertainments in the evening and the infants and every day enjoyed a holiday with all the zest and excitement that generally accompany such occasions in this country

THE [illegible] TROUSSEAUX [illegible] PRESENTS

I have yet to mention what is in my judgment at least—what I [illegible] prove the most interesting portion of this letter. I have to describe the trousseaux of the brides the Thakore's presents to them and the presents received by the [illegible] friends and dependents all over the province of Kattyawar. The presents—how shall I describe them? They had been spread out for view several times before I inspected them but on each occasion it was found that only a portion could be exhibited at a time so very numerous were the articles comprised in them

After being introduced into a moderate sized room in the palace a dazzling sight met my eyes. The whole floor was covered with rich cloths jewels and gold and silver utensils. It was a portion of the dowry of the sprightly lady—from Gondul who (I hear from private but thoroughly well authenticated sources) is the wittiest and richest of the Thakore's wives although she is only the second in rank. It was explained to me that what I saw before me was just one eighth part of the lady of Gondul's trousseau—not to mention the presents she brought her husband in the shape of an elephant carriages camels oxen horses and domestic paraphernalia of innumerable descriptions including a great pink ornamented state bed. Only one eighth. I first looked at the shawls. Here was one Kattyawar make having crimson silk as the background on which were depicted the figures of Hindu deities birds animals, trees and flowers. I was informed that this single shawl cost about six hundred rupees ($4 200). The next I took up and examined was Benares work flowery bowers, with golden beaked silver breasted birds nestling therein price only seven hundred rupees ($4 900). And so on. There were the most gorgeous cloths lying about stiff with gold and silver, and enormously heavy each costing about the same sum. There were a couple of very finely embroidered skirts which must have cost a great deal more. Then there were assortments of shawls scarfs, veils &c pale blue violet gold, and green all elaborately worked with silk or gold and silver thread. The patterns of several of these were simply exquisite. Then my eye alighted on a cloth—all gold from hem to hem, with three beside it half gold, half silver, all plain without pattern and very stiff, thick and heavy. By the side of this rich assortment of wearing apparel—not one-tenth of which has been described by me—lay quite a hundred massive silver dishes, plates, cups, utensils, chamal lamps and drinking vessels, with a few golden vessels, such as rose-water holders, &c. The rest of the compartment was taken up by jewels. The finest of these was a small well designed necklace of emerald, ruby and diamond worth seven thousand rupees ($49 000). There were several tiaras and forehead ornaments worth little less. One simple string of very fine pearls and emeralds bored through and strung together was worth about five thousand rupees ($35 000); had there been no boring and the emeralds had been cut, the necklace ought to have been worth quite ten thousand rupees ($70,000). Besides these, there were numberless small trinkets. I noticed several very handsome chains and gold pendants. There were half a dozen pair of bracelets, which I was told would in all cost nearly ten thousand rupees because of the fine precious stones thickly set in them. I especially remarked a huge pearl and diamond nose ring, which was said to be worth two thousand rupees ($14 000). Such are a few of the articles comprised in that remarkable trousseau and yet I was told over and over again that this was but one eighth part to the Thakore. I confess I left the room simply dumb with astonishment—astonishment which was still further increased as when passing along a balcony I was asked to look down into an inclosure partially covered by an awning and securely railed round. There lay a few of the heavier articles of value brought by the brides to deck their homes—pots immense brazen pots to the number of hundreds and hundreds, silken matresses bales and bales of goods &c. Certainly the Thakore's wives ought not to have to buy new dresses as long as they live. I should like to know how long it would take an average lady in Bombay to wear out five thousand best silk dresses

As I stood looking at that rich assortment of female finery I could not help thinking how strange it was in Orientals to lavish such enormous sums on the attire of ladies who can not show their faces in public. To what a great measure it is that the riches on Indian palaces are but treasures hid in a napkin. How few of these costly dresses and shawls which I inspected will be worn more than once or twice, and even then only worn in the dingy recesses of the palace harem. A dress or two will probably go to dependents some will be used and the rest will be packed up in boxes or go to the moths

[illegible] In the farming regions the investments have been [illegible] length of time. The next year will find the producing classes of Oregon with greatly improved facilities [illegible] the products of the soil

The Wheat Market

[illegible] especially in Oregon as to what will be the course of the wheat market. That the prices will open lower than they did last year [illegible] and though exporters [illegible] occasionally in a strait where it will be better for them to pay high prices for grain than to suffer ships to lie under demurrage there can be no doubt that the demand abroad will scarcely justify rates that were paid last year. While we do not claim any unusual foresight in the matter it is plain to be seen that circumstances do not favor any further appreciation of rates. California farmers are reported to be very backward about selling their crops which in many instances are ready for the market at present current rates while shippers there seem to have little disposition to advance the price of grain. The condition of affairs in our home market is one of the utmost quiet and so far we learn from large dealers that reports of a large proportion or of any considerable portion of the new crop being contracted for are not true that shippers cannot see their way clear at anything above $1 40 per cental and farmers are by no means inclined to sell at that figure. The vessels—three in number—now in port will have to wait until the new crop is ready and the purchase of their cargoes may give some indication of the tendency of the market

There is a fair prospect that the remainder of the 5 per cent loan of the United States will soon be placed bids for most of the amount being already in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Refunding Act of 1870 authorized the issuance of three classes of Bonds bearing interest at the rate of 5 4½ and 4 per cent respectively. The maximum amounts authorized consisted of $500 000 000 of 5 per cent Bonds payable in ten years; $300 000 000 4½ per cent Bonds payable in twenty years and $1000 000 000 4 per cent Bonds payable in thirty years. These Bonds are to be substituted for those already outstanding and therefore do not contemplate any increase of the public debt but rather a reduction by decreasing the rate of interest. It is well known that all the bonds of the United States outstanding except those just referred to draw about $200 000 000 [illegible] per cent interest. The 4 and 4½ per cents have not been offered and only about $11 000 000 of the 5 per cents have been placed. But as already intimated there are tenders on hand for the balance. These per cent Bonds are quoted in the London market at about 104.

Wheat Eastward.

The Chicago warehouses seem to contain the usual quantity of grain incident to this season of the year. The returns for July 1st compare as follows

	1874	1873
Wheat bushel	1 06 200	658 400
Corn	2 005 000	1 401 000
Oat	115 100	156 000
Rye	6 100	57 00
Barley	4 900	151 600

There are large quantities to hold at the end of the season. The Corn crop in the Northwest last year was a partial failure and hence the present deficiency excites no surprise. It is to be noticed that there is an increase of [illegible] 00 bushels Wheat. The work of harvesting in some portions of the Atlantic states has commenced and considerable quantities of new grain will be on the markets there inside of a month

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—The new crop will average earlier in reaching market this year than usual though perhaps not that [illegible] behind that of last year but a few small lots were received here up to the middle of August. Opening prices last year were $1 50 per cental now they are 10 cents per cental [illegible] but if the crop [illegible] reaches the extreme figures which it went to [illegible] fall. Reports from the great grain growing countries of the world give flattering accounts of the prospects of the wheat crop with but very few exceptions. Our market at present is [illegible] per cental. There is said to be a very considerable amount of the new crop contracted for at this figure. We have not [illegible] obtain accurate information on this point

FLOUR—The supply at hand is not large but is perhaps sufficient to meet the demand until the product of the new crop reaches market. Prices [illegible] for [illegible] country brands [illegible]

OATS—We note the market in this cereal has dull and but few buyers can now be found who are anxious to [illegible] large lots at current rates [illegible] though perhaps [illegible] cents more

BARLEY—[illegible] no transactions worthy of note in this grain in our market for [illegible] which were $1 50 [illegible]

FEED—The trade [illegible] rate which [illegible] bran [illegible]

HAY—[illegible] for loose from wagons. The demand except for local consumption is very dull

POTATOES—Are coming in freely and the market is fully supplied with best varieties at from 1 to 1c ℔ bushel sacked. We look for lower prices soon as the crop is very large and the supplies can only be got off when prices decline sufficiently to justify shipments to California.

ONIONS—The new crop is beginning to reach our market in small lots but quotations founded on them are hardly before [illegible] for shipping being yet scarcely matured [illegible] quotable at [illegible] cents ℔

[illegible]—The demand [illegible] well supplied [illegible]

BACON—The trade is dull for common Oregon cut which we are [illegible] is not put up in the best attractive style [illegible] are much below that of some fancy brands of home production and much imported. Common heavy sides are quotable at 9@10 cents; shoulders 7½@8; Hams 11@12 cents. Extra qualities of the latter are [illegible] higher

LARD—The stock of good fresh in kegs is small [illegible] as much as in tins. We quote [illegible]

BUTTER—The receipts of the past few days have [illegible] light and prices are unchanged or fully as firm as at our last report. A good quality of fresh roll will sell readily at 20@25c ℔. Fancy [illegible] common ranges from 15 [illegible] while some that others would hardly consider [illegible] 12½c

CHEESE—The market is well supplied with East[illegible] California and Oregon [illegible] and choice [illegible] is jobbing at 16@18 cents ℔. One of the weekly papers of this city is much mistaken about [illegible] brands of this article in the market. If he will [illegible] dealers he will learn his error

FRESH MEATS—We quote choice young steers [illegible] cents. Demand not active

EGGS—The condition of the eggs arriving is [illegible] cents per dozen very [illegible]

HIDES—[illegible] cents. The [illegible] are large

WOOL—The spring clip [illegible] but little altered from our last [illegible] Oil [illegible] for inferior lots. The total receipts have been near 800 000 pounds—[illegible] last year. [illegible] has acted not well
